

Jacob W. Høgfeldt
omskrevet:
Fredag 5. oktober 2018
O'c.: 16:50

Comfortably nobodies

1.
We once were something
Way back in the sixties
And in the seventies we fought for our own rights
Women and youngsters fought for changes in a old norse land

2.
We once were something
And sudently we stopped
Fighting for what we believed in in this small land
And I think it's a petty we stopped this struggle back then

B1:
Where did hippies go to
Who wanted a free world
Why did Flower Power dissappear
Where did the original people go off to

Chorus:
Many have become
Comfortably nobodies a zero
Many have become
Comfortably nobodies the past

3.
We were somebody
We stood up for ourselves
We indeed had something to fight for in this land
We indeed from the start were held down in society

4.
We were somebody
But it was a hard fight
Back then we changed the government for sure my friend
Back then workers sad in the government working for us

B2:
And solidarity
Were spread out to us all
And the little man was in focus
We fought together and stood up for each other

Chorus:
Many have become
Comfortably nobodies a zeros
Many have become
Comfortably nobodies the past

Outro verse:
We take democracy for given today
Don't you like me
Think that is stupid
We have become comfortably nobodies